FRENCH ATTACKS PROVING COSTLY

German Headquarters Describes Recent Fighting.

BATTLE IN WOODED COUNTRY

Severest Engagements Take Place Between the Meuse and Apremont. Teutons Serve Their Guns With Terrible Effect and Assert French Losses Are Heavy.

Berlin, April 8.—German headquarters has issued the following description of the fighting in France between the Rivers Meuse and Moselle:

"When the enemy's infantry began to deploy the German outposts retreated, according to a prearranged plan, from Regeulville and Fey-en-Haye to their main position on Easter Monday.

"The French attack against the southern front, at first to the north of Toul and then in the forest of Le Preire, began simultaneously with attacks against our north wing to the south of the Orne and between Eparges and Combrès, but the French nowhere were successful, they being everywhere thrown back.

"The severest fighting took place between the Meuse and Apremont, where, in the wooded country, the French were able to approach close to the German positions, but were received with an annihilating fire at short range.

"The Germans served their guns with tremendous effect and in a short time the French reserves were in full flight, while their rifle attack broke down under our infantry fire.

"On April 6 we observed the French killing hundreds of dead in front of their positions.

"The same day attacks by the French in the forest of Le Preire and near Flirey failed. So far the French have only to record fresh failures on the ground which has been the scene of repeated struggles, but it seems that their attacks are not yet at an end."

LONG LIST OF CASUALTIES

British War Office Makes Public Record Report.

London, April 8.—The largest total of casualties yet recorded in any of the official lists was shown in a statement given out dated March 22. This list is believed to cover the losses suffered in part of sanguinary fighting which resulted in the capture of Neuve Chapelle last month.

The list includes the names of 1,842 noncommissioned officers and men of seventy different regiments, the killed numbering 573 and the wounded 1,107. Seventy-six died of wounds and eighty-seven are among the missing.

GERMAN ACT STIRS SWEDEN

Seizure of Ship Instigates Urgent Representation.

Stockholm, April 8.—The seizure by the Germans of the Swedish steamer England is expected by ship owners to meet with greater activity by the government in defense of Swedish rights, particularly since the vessel belongs to Naval Minister Bronstrom.

Urgent representations have been made to Germany as to the desirability of releasing the vessel.

The newspapers express indignation over what they term "this inexplicable blockade of a neutral country."

Frank Moran After Willard.

London, April 8.—Frank Moran wants to meet Jess Willard in England in a title bout at the earliest possible moment, he announced. "I certainly envy Willard," said Moran. "He caught Johnson at just the right time. The Kansan ought to consider himself a very fortunate man."

NORWAY ASKS $70,000 FOR TORPEDOED SHIP.

Christiania, April 8.—The Norwegian government addressed a note to Germany asking compensation of $70,000 for the torpedoing of the Norwegian steamer Belridge in the English channel on Feb. 19. An official inquiry, it was stated, proved beyond a doubt that the steamer was the victim of a German submarine. The Belridge was the first vessel torpedoed following the inauguration of Germany's submarine blockade of the British Isles. She was attacked off Folkestone. Her crew was rescued.

HUERTA SAILS FROM SPAIN

Former Mexican President Coming to United States.

Washington, April 8.—Official announcement that Victoriano Huerta, late Mexican dictator, was on his way from Spain to the United States was received at the state department from the American consul at Seville.

Huerta recently sailed on the steamer Antonio Lopez, due to arrive at New York on Saturday.

BULLETS FLYING ACROSS BORDER

Mexican Factions Clash Near Brownsville, Tex.

Brownsville, Tex., April 8.—Bullets poured into one of the outlying residential sections of Brownsville during a brief engagement between the Carranza trenches in Matamoros and a party of Villa outposts.

One bullet struck within a few inches of a window where Mrs. W. T. Harvey, an American, was standing in her home in Brownsville.

Reports from both the Villa and the Carranza officers said none of the soldiers engaged in the shooting was hit. Firing into Brownsville seriously concerned authorities here, especially because the firing into American territory occurred during an engagement of little magnitude.

F. HOPKINSON SMITH DEAD

Author, Artist and Engineer Succumbs at New York.

New York, April 8.—F. Hopkinson Smith, author and artist, died at his home here, at the age of seventy-seven years.

The genius of Francis Hopkinson Smith manifested itself in many branches of activity. His reputation as an artist was only second to that as an author, while as a practical engineer he won high standing.

Permanent results of his work as a mechanical engineer came in the construction of sea walls at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, Governor's Island, in New York harbor, Race Rock Light-house near New London, Conn., and the foundation for the statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

SUBMARINES SINK 36 BOATS

Eighty-two Lives Also Lost in German Blockade.

New York, April 8.—Thirty-six vessels were sunk and eighty-two lives lost in the German submarine blockade of the United Kingdom during the period from Dec. 31 to March 17, inclusive, according to figures announced by Sir Courtenay Bennett, British consul general here.

In this period 8,220 vessels arrived at United Kingdom ports and 7,829 sailed.

BIGGEST MEETING IN HISTORY

Convention will Have Equal Number of Men and Women Present, 76 Counties Now Represented

Brainerd, basking in a warm sun and newly voted dry, greets today the fifty-seventh annual state convention of the Minnesota Sunday School Association in session, April 8 to 11. Flags are fluttering in the breeze and Brainerd's official electric sign spelling "Welcome" is displayed near the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

A. M. Locker, state secretary of the association, is gratified at the prospects of having the largest convention in the history of the organization at Brainerd. Seated in the administration building, the First Baptist church and surrounded by a corps of ten busy workers, registrations are being made, rooms assigned and all the thousand details of the convention attended to.

Every county of the state except ten, that is 76 out of 86 counties, are already represented at the convention.

"There is no question but that 1,000 delegates will be in attendance," said Mr. Locker. "There are now practically 900 registered from outside and 400 chosen delegates from the Sunday schools of Brainerd. This convention is the greatest thing which ever came to Brainerd. Some have an idea the Sunday school convention is a woman and child proposition. There will be as many men as women in attendance at Brainerd."

The Twin City Special, making but two stops, St. Cloud and Little Falls, is expected to arrive at 11:45 this morning. The noon Duluth train will have extra coaches.

Schools of instruction commence this afternoon in five churches of the city. This evening there will be the sacred concert at the opera house, addresses by Dr. W. A. Brown of Chicago, Marion Lawrence, General Secretary International Sunday School Association of Chicago and Margaret Slattery, of Boston, Mass. So large an audience is expected tonight that provisions are being made for overflow meetings.

It would seem impossible to gather a greater trio of Sunday School workers together than will be heard in Brainerd tonight. Mr. Marion Lawrence is recognized as the most authoritative Sunday School worker in the world. He is secretary of the international organization. Owing to the great number of delegates coming he will speak at the Norwegian Lutheran church on South Seventh street tonight. It is feared that the opera house will not hold the crowds.

At the opera house W. A. Brown and Miss Margaret Slattery will address the delegates. Miss Slattery is the "teen age" specialist and is a great favorite with all audiences. Mr. Brown is a very pleasing speaker and presents the missionary activities of the organization.

The choir of 75 voices will be led by J. Lincoln Hall and the blind pianist, Dr. Adam Gelbel will assist. These two thrilled the conventions at Winona and Duluth. Both of the meeting places tonight will doubtless be packed.

The program for Friday will be as follows:

General Sessions NOTES

2. The ushers will strictly conform to the rule that no person must be seated during an address, the devotions or a special musical number.

MASSING TROOPS BELGIAN BORDER

(By United Press)

London, April 8.—Wild reports are in circulation to the effect that Germany and Holland are quietly massing troops upon the Dutch Belgian border, and that Germany is preparing to enter Holland. These rumors are strictly of English origin, and British newspapers have displayed it. Strong neutral observers insist that although public opinion is becoming more concerned about the sinking of the Dutch ship it is not believed that an open break is imminent, and it is cited that Holland is equally increased on account of the British blockade.

Contradictory rumors concerning the Italian-Austrian situation has been received, and it is reported that Austria has finally decided to cede Trieste to Italy for Italian neutrality, and followed by a report that the Italian fleet is concentrating toward the Adriatic.

DENIED FALABA CARRIED GUNS

(By United Press)

London, April 8.—An official statement denies the German report from Washington that the Falaba carried guns. It is also stated that the five minutes between submarine warning and the explosion of the torpedo was insufficient to permit the passengers and crew to escape. Furthermore, that the submarine shot the torpedo at long range.

GERMAN AVIATOR BOMBED HOSPITAL

(By United Press)

Amsterdam, April 8.—A German aviator bombed the hospital at Berghem, near Dunkirk, killing two Red Cross attendants and wounding a third. One British soldier and several people near the hospital were injured. When returning to the German lines the German fired upon a grounded aviator and the observer was killed.

Thrilling Air Battle Three Aviators Killed

(By United Press)

Berlin, April 8.—Dispatches from Bucharest described thrilling air battle in which three Russian aviators were killed. They attacked an Austrian aviator and he ascended 2,000 feet with one Russian in pursuit, the other two Russians staying directly under their pursuing companion. The Austrian threw a bomb striking the craft of the Russian who was in pursuit and in its fall it dashed between the other two and they were all captured and the aviators dashed to death.

SULTAN OF TURKEY.
Confident Dardanelles Will Withstand Attack.

THINKS DARDANELLES SAFE

Sultan of Turkey Says He Does Not Fear Outcome.

Constantinople, April 8.—"I am convinced that the Dardanelles cannot be forced. The brave conduct of the Turkish troops in the recent operations against the straits permits me to conclude that, although the allies bend every effort and use every means at their disposal, they will be unable to achieve their purpose."

Thus spoke Mehmed V., sultan of Turkey, and first caliph of the Moslem world, in the course of an audience which he had granted a press correspondent. The audience took place at Dolmabahceh palace.

ITALIAN WARSHIPS LEAVE THEIR BASE

Strong Fleet Is Hovering Close to the Adriatic.

On the Italian Frontier, April 8.—The warships of the Italian fleet departed suddenly on Monday from the Mediterranean naval stations at Spezia, Gaeta and Maddalena Island, they concentrated at Augusta, Sicily, and at Taranto. They are thus within a few hours of the Adriatic.

The departure of these warships caused a profound impression, particularly at Spezia, where until last Sunday the harbor was crowded with dreadnaughts, cruisers and torpedo boat destroyers, while the town was filled with officers and sailors.

Italy now has the finest fleet in her history. It is headed by several new dreadnaughts, of which the most formidable is the Conte di Cavour, which corresponds in the Italian navy to Great Britain's Queen Elizabeth.

The future movements of the fleet are veiled with absolute secrecy. It is asserted that only the king and one or two of the highest government officials are acquainted with the plans decided upon.

GREAT BRITAIN TO REPLY

Several Points in American Note of Protest to Be Discussed.

London, April 8.—Although the American note concerning the plan of the allies for cutting off trade to and from Germany does not ask specifically for a reply an answer will be sent by the foreign office.

The note invites further discussion of several points concerning which the rights of neutral commerce are not fully defined and these points will be taken up by the British government in its communication.

Two Chilean Officers Killed.

Santiago, Chile, April 8.—At the annual army maneuvers near Talca two Chilean officers were killed by the fall of a military aeroplane.

CAPTAIN AGREES TO INTERN SHIP

German Cruiser Will Remain in American Port.

WILL BE TAKEN TO NAVY YARD

Commander Thierichens of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich Explains That Failure of Expected Relief to Arrive Had Made It Necessary for the Cruiser to Remain Here During the War.

Newport News, April 8.—Commander Max Thierichens of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich asked the United States government, through port authorities here, to intern his ship and crew for the war.

Up to the last moment the German skipper kept up the appearance of being ready for a dash to sea and when the time for decision finally came he explained that failure of "expected relief" to arrive had made it necessary to intern rather than "deliver crew and ship to fruitless and certain destruction by British and French warships waiting off the Virginia capes."

The commerce raider will be taken to the Norfolk navy yard across Hampton Roads from the shipyard here, where she has been laid since her arrival in Newport News March 10, after the remarkable commerce destroying voyage from the Orient, during which she sent the American ship William P. Frye to the bottom.

Collector of Customs Hamilton boarded the Eitel shortly after 7 p. m., with an imperative notice from the Washington government that the time of the cruiser's stay in this port would expire at midnight and that she must leave American waters by 4 a. m. of April 8.

Before the customs collector could deliver the message Commander Thierichens handed to him the written announcement of his decision.

British Ships Leave Port.

This operated to lift the American embargo against merchant ships of allied European nations leaving this port, which had been in force. More than a score of British merchant vessels were permitted immediately to leave port.

Arrangements for actual internment of the Eitel were made at a conference between Rear Admiral Beatty, commander of the Norfolk navy yard, Rear Admiral Helm of the battleship Alabama and Collector Hamilton. On being taken to the navy yard the breech blocks of her guns will be removed and the connecting rod of her engines detached.

Following is the announcement handed Collector Hamilton by the commander:

"I inform you I intend to intern S. M. S. Eitel Friedrich. The relief I expected appears not to have arrived in time and the number and force of the enemy cruisers watching the entrance of the bay makes impossible the dash for the open sea with any hope of success. I have decided not to deliver the crew and ship to fruitless and certain destruction. I am expecting your orders. I have sent the same information to Rear Admiral Helm, U. S. S. Alabama."

Gloom seemed to pervade the commander's cabin and spread all over the ship. Commander Thierichens himself declared the action he had been forced to take made him sick; that he was heartbroken to be compelled to resort to such a step.

HARD FIGHTING CONTINUES

Russians Claim Further Progress in Carpathians.

Petrograd, April 8.—The following official communication was issued:

"In the Carpathians, despite counter attacks by the enemy, who has obtained large reinforcements detached from the German and Austrian armies, our offensive continues between the river Topia and the region in the direction of the Uzsok pass.

"All the summits of the principal chain of the Beskid mountains to the west of the region of the village of Ustzykl Gornia, are in our hands and our troops are capturing in succession the southern spurs.

"On April 5 we took about 2,900 prisoners."

Two Chilean Officers Killed.

Santiago, Chile, April 8.—At the annual army maneuvers near Talca two Chilean officers were killed by the fall of a military aeroplane.

CAPTAIN AGREES TO INTERN SHIP

German Cruiser Will Remain in American Port.

WILL BE TAKEN TO NAVY YARD

Commander Thierichens of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich Explains That Failure of Expected Relief to Arrive Had Made It Necessary for the Cruiser to Remain Here During the War.

Newport News, April 8.—Commander Max Thierichens of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich asked the United States government, through port authorities here, to intern his ship and crew for the war.

Up to the last moment the German skipper kept up the appearance of being ready for a dash to sea and when the time for decision finally came he explained that failure of "expected relief" to arrive had made it necessary to intern rather than "deliver crew and ship to fruitless and certain destruction by British and French warships waiting off the Virginia capes."

The commerce raider will be taken to the Norfolk navy yard across Hampton Roads from the shipyard here, where she has been laid since her arrival in Newport News March 10, after the remarkable commerce destroying voyage from the Orient, during which she sent the American ship William P. Frye to the bottom. Collector of Customs Hamilton boarded the Eitel shortly after 7 p. m., with an imperative notice from the Washington government that the time of the cruiser's stay in this port would expire at midnight and that she must leave American waters by 4 a. m. of April 8.

Before the customs collector could deliver the message Commander Thierichens handed to him the written announcement of his decision.

British Ships Leave Port.

This operated to lift the American embargo against merchant ships of allied European nations leaving this port, which had been in force. More than a score of British merchant vessels were permitted immediately to leave port.

Arrangements for actual internment of the Eitel were made at a conference between Rear Admiral Beatty, commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, Rear Admiral Helm of the battleship Alabama and Collector Hamilton. On being taken to the navy yard the breech blocks of her guns will be removed and the connecting rod of her engines detached.

Following is the announcement handed Collector Hamilton by the commander:

"I inform you I intend to intern S. M. S. Eitel Friedrich. The relief I expected appears not to have arrived in time and the number and force of the enemy cruisers watching the entrance of the bay makes impossible the dash for the open sea with any hope of success. I have decided not to deliver the crew and ship to fruitless and certain destruction. I am expecting your orders. I have sent the same information to Rear Admiral Helm, U. S. S. Alabama."

Gloom seemed to pervade the commander's cabin and spread all over the ship. Commander Thierichens himself declared the action he had been forced to take made him sick; that he was heartbroken to be compelled to resort to such a step.

HARD FIGHTING CONTINUES

Russians Claim Further Progress in Carpathians.

Petrograd, April 8.—The following official communication was issued:

"In the Carpathians, despite counter attacks by the enemy, who has obtained large reinforcements detached from the German and Austrian armies, our offensive continues between the river Topla and the region in the direction of the Uzsok pass.

"All the summits of the principal chain of the Beskid mountains to the west of the region of the village of Ustzyk Gornia, are in our hands and our troops are capturing in succession the southern spurs.

"On April 5 we took about 2,900 prisoners."

New Old Slang.

Modern slang isn't necessarily new.
It has been pointed out lately that "good night" in its modern slang sense appears in Shakespeare. In "Henry IV., part one, Worcester, speaking of the danger of the conspiracy (Act one, scene three), refers to the peril of one who should attempt to overwalk "a current roaring loud, on the unsteadfast footing of a spear." Hotspur continues, "If he fall in, good night!"

As a young man Washington wrote,
"I heard the bullets whistle, and, believe me, there is something charming in the sound." That "believe me" is almost modern enough for a moving picture show.—Kansas City Star.

Reminders of Stagecoaches.

The four feet eight and one-half inch gauge is not the only "horse" reminder on English railways. The coaching era is still remembered in the "guard" of a train, the "booking office" and in the "coaches" themselves. And "horse" power is still our measure of strength, as candle power perpetuates in an age of electricity the lighting methods of an older time. Steamers "sail" and the sun "sets." In popular language, against the facts that every schoolboy knows. And a candidate who swoops down on a constituency from afar, is he not still a "carpetbagger"? Now, where will you see such an article nowadays unless it be as a carpenter's bulldog?—London

ATLANTIC LEAGUE TO

Fans who have been predicting the demise of the Atlantic league, along with the passing of several other minor baseball organizations, owing to the baseball war, were dealt a knockout blow when the league magnates decided to play the coming season. However, the league will be divided into two sections, the north and south, and at the end of the season the respective winners will come together in a series
for the pennant.

It was also decided to play baseball
only on Saturday, Sunday and holidays
during the coming outdoor season.
How the clubs will be able to retain their players with this unique system remains a mystery. A request will be shortly sent to the National Association of Minor League Clubs that the league be permitted to retain its franchise by playing on the three named days.

to leave O. R., and he probably would have been grabbed up by one of the Federal league clubs had not Owner
Gaffney of the Braves warned the Feds off.

Unfortunately for James' financial ambitions, his contract is one of those
"iron bound" affairs that we are hearing so much talk about in baseball circles these days. The loss of James would seriously injure the chances of the Braves this coming season.

Two Travelers' Tales.

ence composed entirely of sulphur," of one of our trees and let it serve as the head of a match."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Eau de Cologne.

John Maria Farina, who invented eau de cologne in the eighteenth century, was an Italian. The secret recipe is supposed to have been handed down to the descendants of his family and connections, who manufacture it under his name to this day. Most of them are in Cologne, but not all. Some of Farina's descendants are in Italy manufacturing an eau de cologne just as original and veritable as that from Co-logne itself. The famous perfume is a blend of the essential oils of neroli (from a sort of orange), citron, bergamot (two other relations of the orange family), rosemary and the orange itself. The citric scent is obviously the predominant odor.

The Old Roman Ballot.

The ballot was first introduced into Rome in the second century B. C. The voter received a sort of wooden slate covered with wax on which the names
of all the candidates were scratched.
He made holes in the wax opposite those of his choice and dropped his

was little use for a ballot till quite modern times.

"Tomorrow," she answered, glancing
at the clock. "Yes, I should feel sorry.
I thought you might go away tonight."

ATLANTIC LEAGUE TO TRY NOVEL SCHEDULE

Fans who have been predicting the demise of the Atlantic league, along with the passing of several other minor baseball organizations, owing to the baseball war, were dealt a knockout
blow when the league magnates decided to play the coming season. However, the league will be divided into two sections, the north and south, and
at the end of the season the respective winners will come together in a series
for the pennant.

It was also decided to play baseball
only on Saturday, Sunday and holidays
during the coming outdoor season.
How the clubs will be able to retain their players with this unique system remains a mystery. A request will be shortly sent to the National Association of Minor League Clubs that the league be permitted to retain its franchise by playing on the three named
days.

JAMES REMAINS A BRAVE.

"Smiling Bill" James has reconsidered his intention of "hopping" to the outlaws—for the present at least—and has joined the Stallings squad at Ma-stipend than that which his Boston contract called for actuated his longing to leave O. R., and he probably would have been grabbed up by one of the Federal league clubs had not Owner

Gaffney of the Braves warned the Feds off.

Unfortunately for James' financial ambitions, his contract is one of those
"iron bound" affairs that we are hearing so much talk about in baseball circles these days. The loss of James would seriously injure the chances of the Braves this coming season.

Eau de Cologne.

John Maria Farina, who invented
eau de cologne in the eighteenth century, was an Italian. The secret recipe is supposed to have been handed down to the descendants of his family and connections, who manufacture it under his name to this day. Most of them are in Cologne, but not all. Some of Farina's descendants are in Italy manufacturing an eau de cologne just as original and veritable as that from Co-logne itself. The famous perfume is a blend of the essential oils of neroli (from a sort of orange), citron, bergamot (two other relations of the orange family), rosemary and the orange itself. The citric scent is obviously the predominant odor.

THE BEST SHOW IN BRAINERD

TODAY—TOMORROW—ALWAYS

The Old Roman Ballot.

The ballot was first introduced into Rome in the second century B. C. The was the real Australian ballot. The voter received a sort of wooden slate
covered with wax on which the names
of all the candidates were scratched.
He made holes in the wax opposite those of his choice and dropped his tablet in the box. After the downfall of the Roman republic popular government took a long sick and there was little use for a ballot till quite modern times.

Then He Went.

"Miss Ethel," said Cholly Stoylate.
"If I should tell you I was going away tomorrow would you feel sorry?"
"Tomorrow," she answered, glancing
at the clock. "Yes, I should feel sorry.
I thought you might go away tonight."

ON THE BOW-CAR

Lecture Delivered by Dr. Gratz, of St. Paul at the Methodist Church Last Night

One of the best lecturers that has ever won the hearts of a Brainerd audience was Dr. Gratz, pastor of Central Park Methodist church, St. Paul, when he so eloquently delivered his famous lecture, "On the Bow-Car" at the Methodist church, last evening.

The only regret is that, owing to the strenuous duties of the present week, everyone in the city was not permitted to hear him.

Dr. Gratz explained his selection of the title of his lecture in this way: "One day my little girl came running to me, crying, 'Oh, daddy, daddy, see the Bow-car, the Bow-car, Haddy, look! See the men, bowing to each other!' I looked, and her 'Bow-car' proved to be the old-fashioned hand car in motion."

Then occurred to the doctor the great philosophy of the Bow-car, and that in all activities of life, the shop, the school, the home, the commercial world, people must bow to one another, aid and support one another, if the best results be achieved.

Many very apt illustrations were interwoven with a spice and humor peculiar to the speaker.

Dr. and Mrs. Gratz, Brainerd people are pleased to note, are enabled to remain in Brainerd during the state Sunday school convention.

Taking the Blame.

"Of course it was all my fault!" exclaimed the young married man.

"What happened?"

"My wife tried to sharpen a lead-pencil with my razor and cut herself."

OUR TINY KINGLETS.

Aristotle It Was Who Named the Golden Crowned Bird.

If pride could add anything to the stature of a bird the golden crowned kinglet should have grown an inch or so during the last 2,000 and odd years, but it is the same diminutive creature that it was in the days of ancient Greece. The kinglet, no bigger than your thumb, has the high honor of having been named by Aristotle, and the name has clung to it through the long centuries since Alexander's tutor studied nature.

The golden crowned kinglet and his congener, the ruby crowned kinglet, are the smallest American birds, barring only the members of the humming tribe. Aristotle looked on the golden crowned kinglet and, taking out his writing material, set it down that he had that day seen a bird which was "hardly larger than a locust." The philosopher looked at the little circling crown of golden feathers which his newly found feathered friend wore and instantly he dubbed the bird "tyrannos."

In that age the word which Aristotle used had not taken on the "tyrannical" significance which afterward it held. It was significant only of kingship, and while royalty even then may have had much in common with tyranny the little bird escaped a stigma which no act of it then or since could have made deserved.

The golden crowned kinglet will never win fame as a songster, while his cousin, when its timidity is taken into consideration, is nothing short of a marvelous vocalist. The ruby crown's song is sweet, varied, continuous and of great carrying power. It is one of the marked songs of the woodland, and when one who has heard the song comes upon the singer the wonder grows that so small a body can contain such a store of music.—Chicago Post.

How to Mend Kid Gloves.

The head of a glove department in an Ohio store tells as follows how to mend kid gloves: "To mend kid gloves very satisfactorily try this method. With small sharp scissors remove all ragged edges. Buttonhole firmly both edges to be mended with cotton thread (never use silk, as it cuts), using a very fine needle; then bring both these edges together and button hole. A glove mended in this way cannot pull out or rip and will stand the hardest kind of wear thereafter."—Woman's Home Companion.

What Fog Is.

Small particles of water have a tendency to fall slowly in still air, while a very light upward current will be enough to keep them from descending at all in the case of very small particles. It has been shown that the globules of water forming a fog or cloud are each composed of a film of water condensed upon a particle of dust, and the cores are solid instead of gaseous, as the old theory indicated.

Consistency of the Sex.

A bride who is thirty-one if a day will give her age to the marriage license clerk as twenty-six and then criticize the home paper with great severity for its shameless unreliability when it announces that the color scheme of the wedding was lavender instead of heliotrope.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Her Little Slam.

"I see that a statistician estimates there are 150,000 idiots in the United States."

"Well?"

"I was just wondering who the women are who married the other 149,999."—Detroit Free Press.

I should say sincerely, a deep, great, genuine sincerity, is the first characteristic of all men in any way heroic.—Carlyle.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is cataract. Hall's Cataract Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cataract being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ON THE BOW-CAR

Lecture Delivered by Dr. Gratz, of St. Paul at the Methodist Church Last Night

One of the best lecturers that have ever won the hearts of a Brainerd audience was Dr. Gratz, pastor of Central Park Methodist church, St. Paul, when he so eloquently delivered his famous lecture, "On the Bow-Car" at the Methodist church, last evening. The only regret is that, owing to the strenuous duties of the present week, everyone in the city was not permitted to hear him.

Dr. Gratz explained his selection of the title of his lecture in this way: "One day my little girl came running to me, crying, 'Oh, daddy, daddy, see the Bow-car, the Bow-car, laddy, look! See the men, bowing to each other!' I looked, and her 'Bow-car' proved to be the old-fashioned hand car in motion."

Then occurred to the doctor the great philosophy of the Bow-car, and that in all activities of life, the chop, the school, the home, the commercial world, people must bow to one another, aid and support one another, if the best results be achieved.

Many very apt illustrations were interwoven with a spice and humor peculiar to the speaker.

Dr. and Mrs. Gratz, Brainerd people are pleased to note, are enabled to remain in Brainerd during the state Sunday school convention.

Taking the Blame. "Of course it was all my fault!" exclaimed the young married man.

"What happened?"

"My wife tried to sharpen a lead-pencil with my razor and cut herself."

OUR TINY KINGLETS.

Aristotle It Was Who Named the Golden Crowned Bird.

If pride could add anything to the stature of a bird the golden crowned kinglet should have grown an inch or so during the last 2000 or odd years, but it is the same diminutive creature that it was in the days of ancient Greece. The kinglet, no bigger than your thumb, has the high honor of having been named by Aristotle, and the name has clung to it through the long centuries since Alexander's tutor studied nature.

The golden crowned kinglet and his congener, the ruby crowned kinglet, are the smallest American birds, barring only the members of the humming tribe. Aristotle looked on the golden crowned kinglet and, taking out his writing material, set it down that he had that day seen a bird which was "hardly larger than a locust." The philosopher looked at the little circling crown of golden feathers which his newly found feathered friend wore and instantly he dubbed the bird "tyrannos."

In that age the word which Aristotle used had not taken on the "tyrannical" significance which afterward it held. It was significant only of kingship, and while royalty even then may have had much in common with tyranny the little bird escaped a stigma which no act of it then or since could have made deserved.

The golden crowned kinglet will never win fame as a songster, while his cousin, when its thinness is taken into consideration, is nothing short of a marvelous vocalist. The ruby crown's song is sweet, varied, continuous and of great carrying power. It is one of the marked songs of the woodland, and when one who has heard the song comes upon the singer the wonder grows that so small a body can contain such a store of music.—Chicago Post.

How to Mend Kid Gloves.

The head of a glove department in an Ohio store tells as follows how to mend kid gloves: "To mend kid gloves very satisfactorily try this method: With small sharp scissors remove all ragged edges. Buttonhole firmly both edges to be mended with cotton thread (never use silk, as it cuts), using a very fine needle; then bring both these edges together and button hole. A glove mended in this way cannot pull out or rip and will stand the hardest kind of wear thereafter."—Woman's Home Companion.

What Fog Is.

Small particles of water have a tendency to fall slowly in still air, while a very light upward current will be enough to keep them from descending at all in the case of very small particles. It has been shown that the globules of water forming a fog or cloud are each composed of a film of water condensed upon a particle of dust, and the cores are solid instead of gaseous, as the old theory indicated.

Consistency of the Sex.

A bride who is thirty-one if a day will give her age to the marriage license clerk as twenty-six and then criticize the home paper with great severity for its shameless unreliability when it announces that the color scheme of the wedding was lavender instead of heliotrope.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Her Little Slam.

"I see that a statistician estimates there are 150,000 idiots in the United States." "Well?" "I was just wondering who the women are who married the other 149,999."—Detroit Free Press.

I should say sincerely, a deep, great, genuine sincerity, is the first characteristic of all men in any way heroic.—Carlyle.

BRIBED NAPOLEON

The Prize Barras Offered to Have Him Wed Josephine.

A STEPPING STONE TO FAME.

Command of the Army in Italy Was the Lure That Won the Ambitious Young General to Court the Widow. A Surprise For Notary Raguideau.

Paul Jenn Barras, the fiery French revolutionist, who took a leading part in the overthrow of Robespierre in 1794, then became a member of the committee of public safety and commander in chief on the thirteenth Vendémiaire, entering the Directory in 1795 and becoming dictator in 1797, was the man who while head of the government induced Josephine Beauharnais to become Bonaparte's wife. Both of them were unwilling. Mme. Tallien had apparently taken the affection of Barras away from Josephine. Bonaparte started like a war horse at the sound of a trumpet when Barras abruptly proposed that he should offer the widow his hand.

"I want no wife save this," he exclaimed, striking his sword hilt. "Listen to me," said Barras. "You are brave, but poor. This widow of the Marquis de Beauharnais is in a position to advance your future. You are a foreigner and an exile. Her influential friends will serve you. Marry her and I procure you the command of the army in Italy."

A flush passed over the face of Bonaparte.

"Decide!" said Barras. We all know the result. The bribe was too tempting, and Josephine yielded also. If her heart remained untouched her vanity was less passive. As she listened to the glowing prophecies of the ardent young soldier she began to indulge the same visions and glory in the same hopes.

She requested him to accompany her to M. Raguideau, a lawyer in whom she had long been accustomed to confide. They went, and Bonaparte waited in an anteroom while she talked with Raguideau in his office. She neglected to close the door, and it happened that Bonaparte was able to overhear the conversation.

"If you are really going to marry this adventurer," said Raguideau, "it will be the worse for you."

"Oh, why?" asked Josephine.

"Why? A paltry general, without either name or prospects. Will he ever become a Dumouriez or a Pichegru? Better marry a good rich army contractor. The profession of arms is worthless now. You will repent your folly all your life. Whoever heard of a sensible woman throwing herself away on a man whose fortune consists in his sword and his great coat?"

Bonaparte was half suffocated with rage and impatience in listening to this. He was on the point of dashing into the room, but refrained. Josephine came out ruffled and annoyed, but it is remarkable that neither of them said a word about the conversation right up to the time when Napoleon was crowned emperor by the pope, in Paris.

On the morning of that day he sent for Raguideau. The honest lawyer was lost in amazement. He was ushered into an apartment of the Tuilleries and found himself in the presence of Napoleon and Josephine.

"Aha!" said the emperor. "Do you remember a day when I accompanied to your house Mme. de Beauharnais, now empress of the French? Do you remember your panegyric of which I was the object?"

A deluge of such questions stupefied Raguideau, and Josephine was bewildered.

The poor fellow could hardly gasp out a word. When he found speech it was "How could I tell? How could I guess? I thought only of her and her fatherless children. I wanted to see them restored to prosperity and honor." With that he burst into tears.

"I believe you," said the emperor. Then he paused and added, "The future is beyond the grasp of any living man. Well, look here. I have a punishment for you. I condemn you to go this day to Notre Dame and witness the coronation. Not in a corner, but behind a pillar, which will prevent my knowing your obedience, but in the best seat that I can command for you."—From "French Episodes," by Julia Pardoe.

If Mississippi were Missouri's New Jersey what did Delaware? That is to say, what was she Dresden? "Don't know," say you, "Alaska." Ah, but will she tell you? We asked a man the other day, "Canute Tell Wat Tyler Will Rufus?" but he didn't seem to be aware that we were asking for a hat shop. So there you are! Don't we curse? Don't we scintillate?—London Scraps.

GOLD DUST

—it actually works at hundreds of tasks daily

"Let the Gold Dust Twins do your work" is much more than a popular phrase. It is based on truth, an actuality, for Gold Dust really works.

The millions of women who use it for dishwashing and scrubbing know this. But Gold Dust should be used for cleaning and brightening everything. It is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

The small quantity required is quickly taken up by hot or cold, hard or soft water—forming a perfect cleaning solution. The valuable antiseptic cleansing agent it contains helps to make things sanitariously clean, as well as bright and new-looking.

THE CLIENT GETS GOOD NEWS FROM HIS LAWYER.

IT'S sure good news to a tobacco chewer to have a friend tell him about "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew.

Then, once he gets the real comfort of tobacco himself, you couldn't stop him from passing the word along to a personal friend or two.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

BRIBED NAPOLEON

The Prize Barras Offered to Have Him Wed Josephine.

A STEPPING STONE TO FAME.

Command of the Army in Italy Was the Lure That Won the Ambitious Young General to Court the Widow. A Surprise For Notary Raguideau.

Paul Jean Barras, the fiery French revolutionist, who took a leading part in the overthrow of Robespierre in 1794, then became a member of the committee of public safety and commander in chief on the thirteenth Vendémiaire, entering the Directory in 1795 and becoming dictator in 1797, was the man who while head of the government induced Josephine Beauharnais to become Bonaparte's wife. Both of them were unwilling. Mme. Tallien had apparently taken the affection of Barras away from Josephine. Bonaparte started like a war horse at the sound of a trumpet when Barras abruptly proposed that he should offer the widow his hand.

"I want no wife save this," he exclaimed, striking his sword hilt.

"Listen to me," said Barras. "You are brave, but poor. This widow of the Marquis de Beauharnais is in a position to advance your future. You are a foreigner and an exile. Her influential friends will serve you. Marry her and I procure you the command of the army in Italy."

A flush passed over the face of Bonaparte.

"Decide!" said Barras. We all know the result. The bribe was too tempting, and Josephine yielded also. If her heart remained awhile untouched her vanity was less passive. As she listened to the glowing promises of the ardent young soldier she began to indulge the same visions and glory in the same hopes.

She requested him to accompany her to M. Raguideau, a lawyer in whom she had long been accustomed to confide. They went, and Bonaparte waited in an anteroom while she talked with Raguideau in his office. She neglected to close the door, and it happened that Bonaparte was able to overhear the conversation.

"If you are really going to marry this adventurer," said Raguideau, "it will be the worse for you."

"Oh, why?" asked Josephine.

"Why? A petty general, without either name or prospects. Will he ever become a Dumouriez or a Pichegru? Better marry a good rich army contractor. The profession of arms is worthless now. You will repent your folly all your life. Whoever heard of a sensible woman throwing herself away on a man whose fortune consists in his sword and his great coat?"

Bonaparte was half suffocated with rage and impatience in listening to this. He was on the point of dashing into the room, but refrained. Josephine came out ruffled and annoyed, but it is remarkable that neither of them said a word about the conversation right up to the time when Napoleon was crowned emperor by the pope, in Paris.

On the morning of that day he sent for Raguideau. The honest lawyer was lost in amazement. He was ushered into an apartment of the Tuileries and found himself in the presence of Napoleon and Josephine.

"Aha!" said the emperor. "Do you remember a day when I accompanied to your house Mme. de Beauharnais, now empress of the French? Do you remember your panegyric of which I was the object?"

A deluge of such questions stupefied Raguideau, and Josephine was bewildered.

The poor fellow could hardly gasp out a word. When he found speech it was "How could I tell? How could I guess? I thought only of her and her fatherless children. I wanted to see them restored to prosperity and honor." With that he burst into tears.

"I believe you," said the emperor. Then he paused and added, "The future is beyond the grasp of any living man. Well, look here. I have a punishment for you. I condemn you to go this day to Notre Dame and witness the coronation. Not in a corner, not behind a pillar, which will prevent my knowing your obedience, but in the best seat that I can command for you."

Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind it with your teeth. Grinding ordinary audited tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and horrice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

CITY FIRE TRUCK GIVEN A TRIAL

White Truck Guided by Joseph Cornelius Whirls About the City at Lightning Speed

GIVES SATISFACTION IN TEST

Runs Through Heavy Sand, Back Alleys, Waste Piles, Dumps, Etc., with Equal Speed

The White fire truck, purchased by the city, was given a trial spin yesterday afternoon by the demonstrator Joseph Cornelius, of Cleveland, Ohio, and the passengers carried included Fire Chief H. McGinn, President of the City Council C. A. Lagerquist, Alderman D. A. Peterson, Alderman L. H. Stallman, City Engineer C. D. Peacock, Wm. Turcotte, and others including the Dispatch reporter.

The car made a straight shoot up North Sixth street and at about a speed of 45 miles an hour whirled around the corner of Kingwood. The passenger list gave a gasp, expecting to be dashed out with the ladders and other paraphernalia on top of them.

Before they got another gasp, the car let out another link of speed and was shooting down the straight away path and on to the sand hills near the river bank. It was raced out to Northeast Brainerd, over the bridge fill, through back alleys, over waste places, out on Oak street, turned around in sandy wastes and given every kind of a demonstration in Brainerd's streets and alleys to show what the truck could do.

The car passed Sonny Coffrain near the barber shop, going about 45 miles an hour one spectator says, and came to a dead stop at the central hose house less than ten car lengths away.

Ten firemen then climbed in, including former Chief of Police S. W. Quinn. They were satisfied with the speed shown.

Mr. Cornelius remarked that with 2,000 feet of hose in the car it would have more weight near the axles and that he could then turn corners still more quickly. Tears streamed out of the eyes of all occupants of the truck, as no one was wearing goggles.

The truck is housed in the new fire hall. It is equipped with a big search light, illuminated by electricity, provided with all kinds of fire fighting apparatus, ladders, lanterns, etc.

A meeting has been held to organize the league.

The officers selected to manage the Brainerd baseball team are an energetic body and winning baseball is assured. There is playing ability among the officers, business sense of the best kind, legal talent and enthusiasm in big bunches.

At the Grand

No greater argument for universal peace could possibly have been expounded than the exhibition of "The Treason of Anatole," tonight, an Imp military drama, in this story of everyday life the tragedy of unnecessary warfare is brought home with a force which cannot fail to awaken even the most patriotic of us to the duties which we owe not only to our country, but to our loved ones.

This is a film certainly worth while and will be appreciated by every American who has the welfare of mankind at heart.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM WILL S. PITT

Former Mayor of Crosby Wires to the Brainerd Law Enforcement League of Dry Victory

COUNTY OPTION FIGHT TO BEGIN

Officers Elected, the Executive Committee Includes a Man From Each Precinct

Will S. Pitt, former mayor of Crosby, visiting at his former home in Oelwein, Iowa, heard of the dry's victory in Brainerd and wired this message to the Brainerd Law Enforcement League:

"Congratulations to the whole bunch. That's fine. Will be back and ready for business Tuesday."

The business Mr. Pitt referred to was the county option fight. The organization for county option work includes the officers, President B. J. Broady, Secretary R. R. Livingston, Treasurer John Vanderwerker, and the executive committee which will be made up of one man from each precinct and selected by the president.

Petitions are to be circulated immediately for signatures asking that the county option proposition be submitted to the voters at a special election in accordance with the new law on the subject.

TO THE PEOPLE

I take this means to thank the good people of Brainerd for their kind support at the polls in the recent election. Having held the office of Municipal Judge five terms and that of County Attorney one term, I cannot find fault with any one who believed that I have been there long enough. A public office is a care that weighs upon the conscientious man who undertakes to perform its duties, and especially is this true of a judicial office. The saloon question has been solved by the people and henceforth there will be little in that line for the court to do after the close of the present term. I intend to continue with my law practice here in Brainerd, and respectfully solicit your patronage when you need a lawyer.

The recent defeat at the polls is of little consequence compared with the honor of having faithfully served in the above official capacities for twelve years at your hands.

Respectfully,
J. H. WARNER

GERMAN RAIDER HAS INTERNED

(By United Press)

Newport News, Va., April 8.—Commander Max Thierichens of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich asked the United States government, through port authorities here tonight, to intern his ship and crew for the war.

WILSON-BRYAN PLAN FAILED

Washington, April 8.—The Wilson-Bryan plan to neutralize Mexico City has failed because Carranza refused to agree to the arrangement. Bryan stated that the plan of the department was a business matter that it was unreasonable to be expected to discuss with people or to take newspaper men into the confidence.

ROOT AND WEEKS NOT PROGRESSIVE

Element In Republican Party May Oppose Nominations.

ROOSEVELT ACCEPTS EITHER

Colonel Announces They Are Acceptable to Him, and He Is Supposed to Have Absolute Authority on Standard of Progressiveness—Standpatters Think They Will Win.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 8.—[Special.]—As the progressive element in the Republican party see the efforts to make Senator Weeks or former Senator Root the candidate of the Republican party they are somewhat sullen and dissatisfied. There was a time when they boldly boasted that the Republicans could not win unless they selected a man of the progressive type. They and not the ultra conservatives were to name the candidate.

With the growing hopes of the Republicans the attitude has changed. "We can win with anybody now," is the assertion of the old standpat crowd. "We can win with Root if he will take it."

But if Root will not take the nomination, and he has made it quite plain that he does not feel that he is justified in attempting to make the race, it is altogether probable that the regulars will try to nominate Weeks.

What of the Progressives?

And what of the progressives? I mean those who have had strong progressive tendencies, but who did not go so far as to leave the party in 1912. They do not like the idea of seeing a determination to cluster around a man who is so satisfactory to the old crowd. They had hoped for a man like Borah, Cummins, Hadley, Hughes or Whitman. But the progressive element was somewhat discouraged when it learned that Colonel Roosevelt had announced that Weeks or even Root would be satisfactory to him. If those men have the colonel's O. K., who is to say they are not progressive enough? The colonel is supposed to be absolute authority on the standard of progressiveness.

It May Mean Business.

"What! Dutch Dick in the race for senator in Missouri? Then look out. He is some vote getter, and just at this time he will have all the Germans in Missouri behind him almost without regard to party ties."

That was the way a friend of Richard Bartholdt spoke when it was stated that the man who has represented a St. Louis district in the house for twenty years might run for senator on the Republican ticket in Missouri next year. Bartholdt has been vigorous in his loyalty to the Germans during the war and has been highly praised by all Germans in America for his stand.

Strange Political Situation.

"Isn't it rather strange," asked a political observer, "to see two men, possibilities for the Republican nomination next year, men who, it is believed, could be elected if nominated, and both of them feel compelled to discourage all talk about themselves? Both Root and Hughes are in that boat."

It might be added that Hughes is not as strenuous as Root in discouraging talk about himself. Root thinks he could not stand four years in the White House at his time of life.

Will Have Joe's Advice.

Although Joe Davies has become head of the trade commission, he is not going to be entirely lost to the Democrats in the next campaign. Davies was considered a valuable man in 1912, and in the next campaign he will be nearly as valuable and perhaps more so, for besides his experience in national politics he will have had an insight into government affairs on account of his service under the administration. Besides, he will not forget that politics is his first love.

Playing For a Record.

In public life as well as in sports men are playing for a record. A man goes into the cabinet, and he seeks to accomplish something that no one else has done. In looking about for reform work or evils to correct he comes in contact with the "bugs" in the department, who have spent all their lives trying to accomplish some result which attracted them years ago when they became government clerks. They put their plan before the cabinet officer, and he attempts to do what others failed to accomplish.

After long and fruitless efforts he finds out what is the matter. The department "bug" has only considered one side of the question and has never taken the practical side into consideration. After straining vigorously for a few years to bring about the alleged reforms the cabinet officer finds it is no use, and so they are passed over, falling to the lot of his successor.

Must Not Forget Fairbanks.

In these days of president making we must not forget Charles Warren Fairbanks. It seems almost certain that he will have the Indiana delegation at the next convention. At least that is what the men from that state say. He is also said to be a favorite in Illinois after that state had had a fling at voting for a favorite son.

SEEKING PERMANENT PEACE

Count Okuma Sends Explanatory Message to America.

New York, April 8.—The Independent, a New York weekly publication, has received from Count Okuma, the Japanese premier, the following "message to the American people," under date of April 3:

"Suspicion in the United States in connection with Japan's negotiations at Peking is based on misunderstanding and misinformation scattered broadcast by interested mischief-makers."

"When the negotiations are disclosed it will be found that Japan has not infringed the rights of other nations and is not attempting to obtain a monopoly or protectorate over China."

"Japan is merely seeking to settle outstanding troublesome questions in a way looking toward permanent peace and good understanding."

SUPERIOR STAYS WET BY 10

Latest Switch in Returns Favors Sailors.

Milwaukee, April 8.—The dries lost one of their announced big gains when Superior, the second city in size in the state, announced wet, but by a recount found to be dry, was, on final count, discovered to be wet by ten majority.

The dries, however, figures showed, had gained Whitewater, a town of 3,500 persons.

Seven villages which have always been wet went dry.

LACK OF DYES MAY CLOSE 270 MILLS.

Washington, April 8.—A gloomy view of the future of the American textile industry was presented at the White House and the state department by a committee representing 400 mills and headed by former Representative Metz of New York. Unless some relaxation of the recent English blockade order in council is obtained within six weeks' time, Mr. Metz declared, 270 mills will be forced to close and 260,000 operatives will be thrown out of work.

OWNERS LOOK FOR FAT YEAR

Woolmen Believe 1915 Will Be Near the Zenith of Prosperity.

Helena, Mont., April 8.—That 1915 will be one of the most prosperous years Montana sheepmen have ever experienced is the belief of leading growers who predict the opinion upon the fact that wool is higher than in many years, that the mild open winter insures a better quality of fleece than usual and the ewes are in splendid shape for lambing.

"The lamb crop this year should be far above the normal, at least in this part of Montana," remarked a Helena sheepman. "We had no winter to speak of and if this weather continues we can ask for nothing more."

"Wool is steadily going to many consumers in the Boston market and future demand is likely to be met with a fair degree of promptness now that a better understanding has been reached with representatives of the British government relative to conditions upon which supplies from England and her colonies may be obtained," says the Boston Monitor.

"Even now buyers are agreeing to some relatively high prices for the clips for which they are contracting. Medium wools in Montana are said to cost around 27 cents, while 23 to 25 cents is quoted in the Triangle. New territory wool is in the shedding stage in Arizona and forwarding will be pushed more expeditiously than usual this season."

BRITISH DISAVOW BLAME

Say Dyestuffs Purchased Before March 1 Won't Be Molested.

Washington, April 8.—Responsibility for the cutting off of German dyestuffs from American mills was strongly disclaimed at the British embassy. Officials of the embassy said that, so far as the British government is concerned, dyestuffs actually purchased by Americans in Germany before March 1 might be exported from Germany without detention.

DEATH CELL FLIGHT FOILED

Three Murderers Discovered Attempting to Escape.

Sacramento, Cal., April 8.—Three convicted murderers, two of them under death sentence, are back in Folsom prison dungeons after an ineffectual attempt to escape by sliding down the hangman's rope.

The trio, Frank Creeks, Earl Loomis and Zolzie Clements, escaped from their cells by a key smuggled to Creeks, who got away once before by murdering a sergeant of the guard. They worked their way to the ante-room of the death chamber, which awaits Creeks and Loomis, and took from a box the rope used two years ago to hang Jacob Oppenheimer.

With this they slid to a window, at the bars of which they were sawing away when discovered.

WILLARD GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Heavyweight Champion Arrives at Key West.

IMMENSE CROWD GOES WILD

Sirens of Ships in the Harbor Shriek Wildly and Thousands of Men, Women and Children Join in the Joyful Demonstration as the Conqueror of Jack Johnson Returns From Havana.

Key West, Fla., April 8.—While sirens of ships in the harbor shrieked wildly and thousands of men, women and children who thronged the piers joined in the joyful demonstration Jess Willard, Kansas cowboy, returned to his native land after wrestling from Jack Johnson at Havana the heavyweight pugilistic championship of the world.

When the steamer Governor Cobb warped into her pier Willard was observed standing on the upper deck and the crowd went wild. It was with greatest difficulty that the police held the crowds in check sufficiently to allow the new champion to land.

However, when Willard appeared on the staging, he was seized and carried the full length of the pier to where a reception committee from the Key West chamber of commerce bundled him into a carriage for a parade through the town.

Tom Jones, Willard's manager, announced that the new champion will not fight again for six months or a year.

"Willard has earned a rest," he said after reading a telegram offering a $20,000 purse for a fight with Frank Moran. "He has been training for a year and a half and he is going to tour the country, picking up the money that is due him. You know, Willard did not make any big money out of the Havana fight."

"After Jess has completed his tour and had a rest he will be ready to defend the title. He never will fight another negro and will not meet any joke fighters."

Willard's backers received and answered many telegrams regarding offers of exhibitions while the champion is en route to the north. After a hurried conference it was announced that Willard and his party will travel direct from here to Baltimore, where the first exhibition by the new champion will be given on Friday night.

ONLY EIGHT NEGATIVE VOTES

Minnesota Senate Passes Initiative and Referendum Bill.

St. Paul, April 8.—By a vote of 59 to 8 the senate passed the initiative and referendum proposed constitutional amendment, previously passed by the house, following one of the longest debates of the session in that body. A similar amendment, passed at the 1913 session, was defeated at the last general election.

The institutional omnibus appropriations bill was introduced at the house, carrying a total appropriation of $4,765,533 for the next biennial period.

This covers all state institutions with the exception of educational, or all under the jurisdiction of the state board of control.

The amount in the appropriation is more than $700,000 less than that covering the same institutions two years ago, the 1913 appropriation being $5,548,600. It is about $30,000 more than the appropriation of 1911, which figures the committee made an effort to abide by.

Portland (Ore.) Attorney Seriously Wounded in His Office.

Portland, Ore., April 8.—Wilson T. Hume, an attorney widely known in the West and in Alaska, was shot in the back at his office and seriously wounded.

F. A. Consentino, a barber, was arrested. Consentino had quarreled with another lawyer in the same office and had been ejected. He could not see his victim's face as he fired and the police say they believe he shot Hume by mistake.

Hume is said to have been the original of a leading figure in "The Spoilers," a novel dealing with the gold rush in Alaska.

HOUSEHOLD GENERALIZATION

How to Get the Most Out of Your Income.

In the poor family the larger part of the income is spent for the household needs—food, service, laundry, clothes and household supplies. These lie in the woman's province, and it is therefore fairer for the man to lay aside such a sum as shall cover rent, insurance, heat, light and his own personal needs and bank the rest of the income in a checking account for his wife.

Rent in this land of high rents is often calculated at one-third of the income, but that is too large an obligation to assume, and one-fifth or one-sixth is the only safe reckoning.

Heat and light it is impossible to generalize about, as these expenses will depend entirely on how and where you live. If you live in an apartment you can afford a higher rent in proportion, as your heat will be provided. The heat and light bills are usually better left to the man to regulate and settle, as he is better fitted to cope with the furnace, and in the matter of using light men are naturally the more extravagant and careless. They should therefore have the payment of the bills and the understanding that that brings. Also in the matter of a mistake in the gas or electric meter a man usually feels that he is better able to attend to the subject than a woman.

Food, however, comes entirely in the woman's province, and too large a sum often is allowed for it. This is often not the woman's fault, but is due to the man's insistence on too much and too expensive meat. The man who thinks that he must have a roast, steak or chops every day is an impossible man to cater to economically or efficiently. A variety of cuts, high once or twice a week and an occasional meatless supper or high tea for a change will keep the meat bill down most amazingly, and the careful and efficient housewife should have no difficulty in keeping her household bills down.

How He Accounted For It. A man who was presented for naturalization said he had six children, all born in this country, that the oldest was sixteen and that he had lived in this country nine years. This led to a little cross questioning on the part of the examiner, who could not understand the arithmetical mind of a man who declared that he had been here but nine years, but his oldest child, sixteen, was born here.

"How do you account for it?" finally asked the examiner, willing to give the man a chance to get out of his apparent mistake.

"Why," declared the would be citizen, "I married a widow with four children."—Boston Record.

Amplified Designation.

"Billings prides himself on calling a spade a spade."

"Yes, but he puts in a few adjectives when he gets out in the garden and tries to manage one."—Washington Star.

THE BUILDING OF THE NEST.

They'll come again to the apple tree—Robin and all the rest. When the orchard branches are fair to see In the snow of the blossoms drest, And the prettiest thing in the world will be The building of the nest.

Weaving it well, so round and trim, Hollowing it with care, Nothing too far away for him, Nothing for her too fair, Hanging it safe on the topmost limb, Their castle in the air.

Ah, mother bird, you'll have weary days When the eggs are under your breast, And shadows may darken the dawning rays. When the wee ones leave the nest, But they'll find their wings in a glad amaze, And God will see to the rest!

So come to the tree with all your train When the apple blossoms blow; Through the April shimmer of sun and rain, Go flying to and fro. And sing to our hearts as we watch again Your fairy building grow. —Margaret E. Sangster.

DOMESTIC TOPICS.

Try having a supply of paper napkins and a roll of oiled paper on hand if there are school lunches to pack. The paper napkins save washing and the oiled paper keeps the lunch from drying out.

To make mock whipped cream use one cupful of milk, sweetened, and a scant teaspoonful of flour. Cook to a cream. Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, pour the boiling cream over them and beat for a minute or two.

Hard boiled eggs should be plunged into cold water as soon as they are removed from the saucepan. This prevents a dark ring from appearing around the yolk.

A thin coating of the best varnish twice a year will do much toward keeping the floor clean, bright and shiny and preventing wear.

Anchovies may be used as a garnish for cold meats, and anchovies on toast furnish a nice relish.

Never pierce meat while it is cooking, thus allowing the juice to escape.

A sprig of parsley heated with canned peas gives them a fresh and delicious flavor.

As soon as macaroni has been drained and blanched by throwing it into cold water mix with a little butter to keep it from sticking together.

An Ancient Tree.

A specimen of the kauri pine in New Zealand, growing on Mercury bay, has a trunk twenty-four feet in diameter and is said to be 1,300 years old.

Waste From Coins.

The waste of metal from coins rubbing together is said to amount to one ton and a quarter of gold and eighty-eight tons of silver annually.

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

By special arrangement for this paper a photo-drama corresponding to the installments of "The Master Key" may now be seen at the leading moving picture theaters. By arrangement made with the Universal Film Manufacturing company it is not only possible to read "The Master Key" in this paper, but also afterward to see moving pictures of our story.

COPYRIGHT, 1914, BY JOHN FLEMING WILSON

"I should not have let you love him," was the quiet response. "I have struggled too hard and fought too long for you to allow any one else to have you."

"And what does your love amount to, after all, Harry?" she asked. "Tell me plainly. Has it done either of us any good? Will it ever do us any good?"

Wilkerson stared out at the dark sea, and his face grew slowly very cruel.

"Good?" he repeated. "All that I know is that I love you more than anything else in the universe. You love luxury and jewelry and gold and silk. Because I know what you love I am trying to get it for you, because I want you more than I want anything else. I—I think we are even."

"Even?" she said in a suddenly strained voice. "Yes, we are even—you the felon and the murderer, I the receiver of stolen goods, stolen happiness, stolen life, stolen gold!"

When they finally reached San Francisco Wilkerson found her oddly distraught. She did not know whether to go to the mine or to return to New York.

One moment she was in a tigerish rage; the next hour she was staring at the fog haunted hills with eyes that saw nothing.

He stormed and argued to no purpose. He recoiled to her constantly the fact that he had the deeds, the master key itself, the plans of the location of the mother lode.

She either listened listlessly or drove him away with furious upbraidings. Yet in the end she accompanied him to Silent Valley.

It was a bitter moment for old Tom Kane when the stage drove up and Wilkerson and Mrs. Darnell got out instead of John Dorr and Ruth.

He had hoped against hope, and now his dreams were in ashes, for Wilkerson instantly took charge, the men, as Tom put it to himself, followed the paymaster, and so far as outward appearance went the "Master Key" mine was firmly in Wilkerson's possession.

Mrs. Darnell here proved herself the shrewd mind. Though she was little seen, her influence was potent.

And more than anything else she worked on Wilkerson so that he did not use the plans and open up the rich vein.

"Wait," she told him. "Don't be impatient. Our whole power here is in the fact that we have the secret. Once that is public we'll likely lose everything."

"But we ought to be at work before Dorr gets back," he would argue.

"Yes, and every court in the land will help him to regain this mine and its wealth. Don't you see? Compromise!"

"Compromise!" he repeated dully.

"Yes, you fool!"

"But how?"

"Wait—wait till John and Ruth get back. They'll be glad enough to buy those plans, Harry."

When John Dorr and Ruth arrived on the following steamer Everett met them at the pier and told them the news as he had gathered it from faithful Tom Kane, whom Jean Darnell had insisted should resume his duties as cook, sagely observing to Wilkerson that it would be well for them to have a witness whose veracity Dorr would not impugn.

Settled in the hotel, Dorr briefly related the experiences of the past months and then bluntly asked, "What are we to do?"

Everett was ready with his answer, "Compromise!"

The dull red flooded John's face, and he bit his lip. Had all his work gone for nothing?

Everett laid a friendly hand on his knee. "Now listen," he said gravely. "Here is Miss Ruth minus her key, practically ousted from possession of her property and, if we are not mistaken, unable to lay her hands on her most precious inheritance—the plans of the mother lode. They're in Wilkerson's possession."

"And he's digging the gold night and day!" John burst out.

With a swift glance to reassure Ruth, who sat in mournful silence, Everett went on:

"That is the shrewd part of Wilkerson's play. He knows that the law will give Miss Ruth here back her mine and all that it contains. It would take time, but as sure as we are sitting here, and no one knows it better than he—justice would strip him of every ill gotten cent and send him to prison with his accomplice. So what does he do? Hastily uncover the real prize? No. He conceals it still and merely works the original mine."

"But we can put him out of father's mine, can't we?" demanded Ruth.

"And when we do we shall still be no wiser as to the location of the real gold. All our trouble and expense will have gone for naught. Wilkerson will still hold the secret of the 'Master Key.'"

"And how are we going to get it from him?" demanded Dorr, clenching his fist.

Everett smiled. "By buying it from him."

"He will ask millions!"

The broker smiled again.

"Consider Wilkerson's position for a moment. He is liable to arrest, trial and long imprisonment on a dozen charges. Within twenty-four hours we can have him behind the bars. But we wouldn't be helping ourselves much, would we? Yet Wilkerson and Mrs. Darnell don't want to go to jail. We hold that club over them."

"They have the secret we must have and we can ruin their lives. Therefore we make a trade. We give them assurance that we will not prosecute them, that we will even enrich them, if need be, and they in return for this, hand us over the plans that Thomas Gallon made."

ROOT AND WEEKS NOT PROGRESSIVE

Element in Republican Party May Oppose Nominations.

ROOSEVELT ACCEPTS EITHER

Colonel Announces They Are Acceptable to Him, and He Is Supposed to Have Absolute Authority on Standard of Progressiveness—Standpatters Think They Will Win.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 8.—[Special.]—As the progressive element in the Republican party see the efforts to make Senator Weeks or former Senator Root the candidate of the Republican party they are somewhat sullen and dissatisfied. There was a time when they boldly boasted that the Republicans could not win unless they selected a man of the progressive type. They and not the ultra conservatives were to name the candidate.

With the growing hopes of the Republicans the attitude has changed. "We can win with anybody now," is the assertion of the old standpat crowd. "We can win with Root if he will take it."

But if Root will not take the nomination, and he has made it quite plain that he does not feel that he is justified in attempting to make the race, it is altogether probable that the regulars will try to nominate Weeks.

What of the Progressives?

And what of the progressives? I mean those who have had strong progressive tendencies, but who did not go so far as to leave the party in 1912. They do not like the idea of seeing a determination to cluster around a man who is so satisfactory to the old crowd. They had hoped for a man like Borah, Cummins, Hadley, Hughes or Whitman. But the progressive element was somewhat discouraged when it learned that Colonel Roosevelt had announced that Weeks or even Root would be satisfactory to him. If those men have the colonel's O. K., who is to say they are not progressive enough? The colonel is supposed to be absolute authority on the standard of progressiveness.

It May Mean Business.

"What! Dutch Dick in the race for senator in Missouri? Then look out. He is some vote getter, and just at this time he will have all the Germans in Missouri behind him almost without regard to party ties."

That was the way a friend of Richard Bartholdt spoke when it was stated that the man who has represented a St. Louis district in the house for twenty years might run for senator on the Republican ticket in Missouri next year. Bartholdt has been vigorous in his loyalty to the Germans during the war and has been highly praised by all Germans in America for his stand.

Strange Political Situation.

"Isn't it rather strange," asked a political observer, "to see two men, possibilities for the Republican nomination next year, men who, it is believed, could be elected if nominated, and both of them feel compelled to discourage all talk about themselves? Both Root and Hughes are in that boat."

It might be added that Hughes is not as strenuous as Root in discouraging talk about himself. Root thinks he could not stand four years in the White House at his time of life.

Will Have Joe's Advice.

Although Joe Davies has become head of the trade commission, he is not going to be entirely lost to the Democrats in the next campaign. Davies was considered a valuable man in 1912, and in the next campaign he will be nearly as valuable and perhaps more so, for besides his experience in national politics he will have had an insight into government affairs on account of his service under the administration. Besides, he will not forget that politics is his first love.

Playing For a Record.

In public life as well as in sports men are playing for a record. A man goes into the cabinet, and he seeks to accomplish something that no one else has done. In looking about for reform work or evils to correct he comes in contact with the "bugs" in the department, who have spent all their lives trying to accomplish some result which attracted them years ago when they became government clerks. They put their plan before the cabinet officer, and he attempts to do what others failed to accomplish.

After long and fruitless efforts he finds out what is the matter. The department "bug" has only considered one side of the question and has never taken the practical side into consideration. After straining vigorously for a few years to bring about the alleged reforms the cabinet officer finds it is no use, and so they are passed over, failing to the lot of his successor.

Must Not Forget Fairbanks.

In these days of president making we must not forget Charles Warren Fairbanks. It seems almost certain that he will have the Indiana delegation at the next convention. At least that is what the men from that state say. He is also said to be a favorite in Illinois after that state had had a fling at voting for a favorite son.

SEEKING PERMANENT PEACE

Count Okuma Sends Explanatory Message to America.

New York, April 8.—The Independent, a New York weekly publication, has received from Count Okuma, the Japanese premier, the following "message to the American people," under date of April 3:

"Suspicion in the United States in connection with Japan's negotiations at Peking is based on misunderstanding and misinformation scattered broadcast by interested mischiefmakers."

"When the negotiations are disclosed it will be found that Japan has not infringed the rights of other nations and is not attempting to obtain a monopoly or protectorate over China."

"Japan is merely seeking to settle outstanding troublesome questions in a way looking toward permanent peace and good understanding."

SUPERIOR STAYS WET BY 10

Milwaukee, April 8.—The dries lost one of their announced big gains when Superior, the second city in size in the state, announced wet, but by a recount found to be dry, was, on final count, discovered to be wet by ten majority.

Seven villages which have always been wet went dry.

LACK OF DYES MAY CLOSE 270 MILLS.

Washington, April 8.—A gloomy view of the future of the American textile industry was presented at the White House and the state department by a committee representing 400 mills and headed by former Representative Metz of New York. Unless some relaxation of the recent English blockade order in council is obtained within six weeks' time, Mr. Metz declared, 270 mills will be forced to close and 250,000 operatives will be thrown out of work.

OWNERS LOOK FOR FAT YEAR

Woolmen Believe 1915 Will Be Near the Zenith of Prosperity.

Helena, Mont., April 8.—That 1915 will be one of the most prosperous years Montana sheepmen have ever experienced is the belief of leading growers who predict the opinion upon the fact that wool is higher than in many years, that the mild open winter insures a better quality of fleece than usual and the ewes are in splendid shape for lambing.

"The lamb crop this year should be far above the normal, at least in this part of Montana," remarked a Helena sheepman. "We had no winter to speak of and if this weather continues we can ask for nothing more."

"Wool is steadily going to many consumers in the Boston market and future demand is likely to be met with a fair degree of promptness now that a better understanding has been reached with representatives of the British government relative to conditions upon which supplies from England and her colonies may be obtained," says the Boston Monitor.

"Even now buyers are agreeing to some relatively high prices for the clips for which they are contracting. Medium wools in Montana are said to cost around 27 cents, while 23 to 25 cents is quoted in the Triangle. New territory wool is in the shedding stage in Arizona and forwarding will be pushed more expeditiously than usual this season."

BRITISH DISAVOW BLAME

Say Dyestuffs Purchased Before March 1 Won't Be Molested.

Washington, April 8.—Responsibility for the cutting off of German dyestuffs from American mills was strongly disclaimed at the British embassy. Officials of the embassy said that, so far as the British government is concerned, dyestuffs actually purchased by Americans in Germany before March 1 might be exported from Germany without detention.

DEATH CELL FLIGHT FOILED

Three Murderers Discovered Attempting to Escape.

Sacramento, Cal., April 8.—Three convicted murderers, two of them under death sentence, are back in Folsom prison dungeons after an ineffectual attempt to escape by sliding down the hangman's rope.

The trio, Frank Creeks, Earl Loomis and Zolzie Clements, escaped from their cells by a key smuggled to them by a guard. They worked their way to the ante-room of the death chamber, which awaits Creeks and Loomis, and took from a box the rope used two years ago to hang Jacob Oppenheimer.

With this they slid to a window, at the bars of which they were sawing away when discovered.

WILLARD GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Heavyweight Champion Arrives at Key West.

IMMENSE CROWD GOES WILD

Sirens of Ships in the Harbor Shriek

Wildly and Thousands of Men, Women and Children Join in the Joyful Demonstration as the Conqueror of Jack Johnson Returns From Havana.

Key West, Fla., April 8.—While sirens of ships in the harbor shrieked wildly and thousands of men, women and children who thronged the piers joined in the joyful demonstration Jess Willard, Kansas cowboy, returned to his native land after wrestling from Jack Johnson at Havana the heavyweight pugilistic championship of the world.

When the steamer Governor Cobb warped into her pier Willard was observed standing on the upper deck and the crowd went wild. It was with greatest difficulty that the police held the crowds in check sufficiently to allow the new champion to land.

However, when Willard appeared on the staging, he was seized and carried the full length of the pier to where a reception committee from the Key West chamber of commerce bundled him into a carriage for a parade through the town.

Tom Jones, Willard's manager, announced that the new champion will not fight again for six months or a year.

"Willard has earned a rest," he said after reading a telegram offering a $20,000 purse for a fight with Frank Moran. "He has been training for a year and a half and he is going to tour the country, picking up the money that is due him. You know, Willard did not make any big money out of the Havana fight."

"After Jess has completed his tour and had a rest he will be ready to defend the title. He never will fight another negro and will not meet any joke fighters."

Willard's backers received and answered many telegrams regarding offers of exhibitions while the champion is en route to the north. After a hurried conference it was announced that Willard and his party will travel direct from here to Baltimore, where the first exhibition by the new champion will be given on Friday night.

ONLY EIGHT NEGATIVE VOTES

Minnesota Senate Passes Initiative and Referendum Bill.

St. Paul, April 8.—By a vote of 59 to 8 the senate passed the initiative and referendum proposed constitutional amendment, previously passed by the house, following one of the longest debates of the session in that body. A similar amendment, passed at the last general election.

The institutional omnibus appropriations bill was introduced at the house, carrying a total appropriation of $4,765,533 for the next biennial period.

This covers all state institutions with the exception of educational, and all under the jurisdiction of the state board of control.

The amount in the appropriation is more than $700,000 less than that covering the same institutions two years ago, the 1913 appropriation being $5,548,600. It is about $30,000 more than the appropriation of 1911, which figures the committee made an effort to abide by.

Portland (Ore.) Attorney Seriously Wounded in His Office.

Portland, Ore., April 8.—Wilson T. Hume, an attorney widely known in the West and in Alaska, was shot in the back at his office and seriously wounded.

F. A. Consentino, a barber, was arrested. Consentino had quarreled with another lawyer in the same office and had been ejected. He could not see his victim's face as he fired and the police say they believe he shot Hume by mistake.

Hume is said to have been the original of a leading figure in "The Spoilers," a novel dealing with the gold rush in Alaska.

HOUSEHOLD GENERALIZATION

How to Get the Most Out of Your Income.

In the poor family the larger part of the income is spent for the household needs—food, service, laundry, clothes and household supplies. These lie in the woman's province, and it is therefore fairer for the man to lay aside such a sum as shall cover rent, insurance, heat, light and his own personal needs and bank the rest of the income in a checking account for his wife.

Rent in this land of high rents is often calculated at one-third of the income, but that is too large an obligation to assume, and one-fifth or one-sixth is the only safe reckoning.

Heat and light it is impossible to generalize about, as these expenses will depend entirely on how and where you live. If you live in an apartment you can afford a higher rent in proportion, as your heat will be provided. The heat and light bills are usually better left to the man to regulate and settle, as he is better fitted to cope with the furnace, and in the matter of using light men are naturally the more extravagant and careless. They should therefore have the payment of the bills and the understanding that that brings. Also in the matter of a mistake in the gas or electric meter a man usually feels that he is better able to attend to the subject than a woman.

Food, however, comes entirely in the woman's province, and too large a sum often is allowed for it. This is often not the woman's fault, but is due to the man's insistence on too much and too expensive meat. The man who thinks that he must have a roast, steak or chops every day is an impossible man to cater to economically or efficiently. A variety of cuts, fish once or twice a week and an occasional meatless supper or high tea for a change will keep the meat bill down most amazingly, and the careful and efficient housewife should have no difficulty in keeping her household bills down.

How He Accounted For It.

A map who was presented for naturalization said he had six children, all born in this country, that the oldest was sixteen and that he had lived in this country nine years. This led to a little cross questioning on the part of the examiner, who could not understand the arithmetical mind of a man who declared that he had been here but nine years, but his oldest child, sixteen, was born here.

"How do you account for it?" finally asked the examiner, willing to give the man a chance to get out of his apparent mistake.

"Why," declared the would be citizen, "I married a widow with four children."—Boston Record.
